

Morning Journal.

BY THE ALBUQUERQUE PUBLISHING CO.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1882.

Five old porters down from the west; wines and liquors for family and medicinal use; champagne and cigars at W. E. Talbot's, the only reliable wholesale house in New Mexico.

SUBS OF NEWS.

The time for holiday advertisements has arrived.

Hides are now being shipped east in large quantities.

No arrests were made by the police force yesterday.

The Osbornes again to-night. They are deserving of a good house.

Most all of the Albuquerque lawyers are in Los Lunas attending the district court.

The committee of safety held a meeting last night and transacted some routine business.

Everybody is talking about the elections and news of any other character is difficult to find.

Ore for the Hub's smelter will soon commence to arrive and the works will commence operations.

Socorro county is still classed among the doubtful counties, although the latest reports show a slight majority for Luna.

The dog population of Albuquerque is simply immense, and it would be much better for all concerned if it was materially lessened.

Maj. Melchior Werner, the gentlemanly probate clerk, refused to give The Journal the election returns. He refuses for personal reasons.

There should be a meeting of the Board of Trade next Tuesday evening, and there will be one if the members of the association will turn out.

Leonard & Young shipped another lot of goods to their branch store in Kingston yesterday. They are said to be doing a land office business down there.

Judge Sullivan yesterday sentenced James Lewis, the coon who stole a harness from Fuller & Right, to thirty days imprisonment in the county jail.

Business men in Albuquerque can already commence to feel the effects of the trade attracted to the city by the new bridge across the river at this point.

The recent election proved conclusively that Albuquerque is the largest city in New Mexico. There is without doubt 10,000 people in the three precincts.

Mrs. McMartin has closed her restaurant on Second street and will reopen in a few days on Railroad avenue in the building formerly occupied by Lilwall's City Restaurant.

Lewis & Uman, the Star clothing house men have a new safe, and a dog which is warranted to whip anything in town. What more could they desire to make them happy?

There is considerable talk about contesting some of the precincts. Talk is probably all it will amount to. The decision of the returning boards will be the final decisions in all probability.

A committee went around among the business men yesterday soliciting subscriptions for the maintenance of the police force. About $300 was obtained, and the work is not nearly done.

It causes a smile to flit across Charlie Montalvo's face when he is addressed as Senator, and the chances are, if you address him by that title with the proper dignity he will ask you to take a drink.

O. G. Seaton, now that he has sold his business interests in this city, thinks of removing to El Paso. He will probably dispose of all of his property here and reside permanently in the Lone Star State.

Vincent Wallace and Norman C. Haff, both of the Central Bank of this city, are making arrangements to establish a bank at Kingston. They are well up in the banking business, and will make a success of the venture if anybody can.

The remains of W. A. Smith are now being embalmed by Torrey, Anderson & Sloan, preparatory to being sent east for burial. His brother, Rollin B. Smith, of Williamsport, Pa., telegraphed yesterday to forward the body as soon as possible.

A raffish for a cluster diamond ring took place at Al Connor's Marble Hall last evening. There were fifty chances sold at two dollars each, and Perfecto Armijo proved the winner. The lucky Sheriff was tied twice with Mr. Lowenthal before he was allowed to carry away the prize.

There are in the city several opium dens, and the immense business being done by them shows how rapidly the vice of opium smoking is spreading among the people. If there is any legal way by which these places can be broken up, the police force will do a humanitarian act by doing so.

Another rich strike has been made at Kingston within the past few days, which has thrown the camp into an intense state of excitement. A strike, which would cause excitement at Kingston where good strikes are made every day and are of common occurrence, must indeed be something wonderful.

Drs. Beasley & Macbeth, whose professional card appears elsewhere in The Journal, come to us very highly recommended. Dr. Beasley brings the most flattering notices from his former home in Michigan, and is undoubtedly one of the most competent men in the profession. By means of a perfectly harmless medicine which he has used for many years he is able to extract teeth with little or no pain. Give the new firm a trial.

THE SITUATION.

Everything Still Remaining in Doubt.

With the Exception of the County Officers.

The Democratic Ticket Elected, By 500 Majority.

Both Parties Claiming the Election of Delegate to Congress.

The returns from Bernalillo county are still incomplete, there being several precincts yet to hear. The indications and calculations thus far show that the Peoples' ticket has a majority on the average of about 500 while Luna's majority is somewhere between 600 and 700. The count in precinct twelve was completed at a late hour last night but the returns could not be attained by The Journal for publication.

The precinct of San Pedro returned a majority of forty four for Munizares, while the Democratic ticket is badly cut up and the majority of the candidates have a majority of between twenty-five and thirty.

In Nacimiento and the remainder of the precincts in the northern part of the county, Luna and the Republican county ticket have small majorities.

As far as the general result in the county is concerned, there is no more doubt, unless it is on McComas and Whiteman, the Republican candidates for the Council and House. It is barely possible that they are elected by small majorities, although it is hardly probable.

Both the Republicans and Democrats claim the election of delegate by 1,000 majority, but the returns will not be in so that it will be known positively who the successful candidates, within a week. During that time the politicians will continue to figure out a majority for their candidates, but will not be easy in their minds until the full returns are in.

The Osbornes. The Osbornes gave their first entertainment in Albuquerque at Armijo Hall last night to a fair house. To say that those who attended were pleased, would not half express the sentiments of the people. The performance was something of the character of those given by Nat Goodwin and Eliza Weatherbee, and is of an equally good order of merit. The humor was of the highest and finest order, and kept the audience in good spirits from the moment of the commencement of the first act until the close of the last.

Mrs. Fanny Osborne has a rich, full voice, and her powers of elocution are such as to electrify her hearers and keep them in rapt attention until she has finished her reading. Probably the particular piece which pleased the audience most, was "Oddities, or Fun in the Parlor." This gave Mr. Osborne an opportunity to display his talents as an amusement maker to the very best advantage. His production of Scotch, Jewish, and Irish comedy were what might be simply termed, immense, as was all the rest of the entertainment.

The people who went to see the Osbornes last night went with the expectation of witnessing a very ordinary performance and were greatly surprised to find instead something of a very superior character. Depend upon it Armijo Hall will be taxed to its utmost capacity to-night, when there is to be an entire change of programme.

The Count Completed. At 8 p. m. last evening the election board of this precinct completed the count, and at once commenced the adding up of the ballots for each candidate.

The Osborne theatrical combination having engaged the hall for the evening the board were compelled to stop their work.

From what could be learned, it is understood that Santiago Baca's vote in this precinct is 143, and a revision of this count will not materially alter these figures.

It took fifty hours to count the vote of East Albuquerque, and this shows in some degree what condition the ballots were in. Everything and everybody was scratched, while there were no less than ten different tickets in the field. The vote on the justice of the peace and constable will probably be closer than anything else, and Sullivan and Cridigan's majority will be anywhere from 300 to 500.

Perfecto Armijo for sheriff will undoubtedly have the largest majority on the Democratic ticket, reaching as high as 1,400, while the other majorities may run as low as 350 to 400.

Card to the Public. As some remarks have been made by some parties, in regard to the present of five dollars which was made the merchants police force of this city by Fuller & Right, as a token of their appreciation for the prompt manner in which a set of harness stolen by the negro Jim was recovered. I wish to state that the amount was turned over this evening, at their first meeting since the occurrence, to Mr. Mack treasurer of the committee of safety.

E. S. Howe, Chief of Police. A New start. Yesterday afternoon Louis Peterson made O. G. Seaton an offer for the Boss saloon. The offer was refused and Seaton named his price. That settled it. Louis paid him the cash and took possession. "Arthur McKee" is his partner, and the firm name will be Peterson & McKee. Both members of the new firm are very popular young men and will command a good trade. The house will be redited throughout, the gambling tables will be removed and replaced with three billiard tables, and Louis says they will have the very best place in town without any exception, and as he thoroughly understands how to make a saloon attractive no one will think of disputing his assertion. Look out for the Boss. It is bound to come to the front.

John Price, who was foreman of the stone cutters on the Cañon Diablo bridge arrived in this city from Arizona yesterday afternoon. He will return to his old home in Iowa.

The election board of precinct twelve yesterday afternoon sent a note, summoning the city editor of The Journal before them. They had very discreetly selected one of their clerks to thrash him for some grievance which the board had been doing them through the columns of yesterday morning's Journal. It so happened that at the time the city editor knew nothing concerning the item referred to, as it was written without his knowledge, but he knows about it now, and will be able to answer all questions that may be asked him about it hereafter.

C. F. Holton has been made a member of the police force in the place of A. L. Wellman. The force is now in good shape and is receiving a hearty support from the business men.
